Dear Dr. San Antonio,

Greetings!

We are from Edukasyon.ph, a social enterprise that offers a website with a database of educational opportunities for high school students. The website includes college courses, scholarships, and grants, given by government agencies, embassies, universities and foundations here and abroad to help students in their decision-making process for college.

As part of our social mission to help students in charting their career path, we are conducting FREE online career clinics at the different public schools all over the country. The career clinics are computer-based sessions on college search that provide incoming college students an opportunity to search for higher education institutions and scholarships that correspond to their interests. These sessions empower students with information online on the different careers they can choose from.

We have received an endorsement letter from your humble office allowing us to proceed with our Career Clinics in the different school of the region. For your reference, you may find the endorsement letter attached.

In connection to this, we would like to request your assistance in promoting and facilitating the registration of High School students on our educational platform at www.edukasyon.ph in order for them to access their educational opportunities, be empowered with information and choice, and success through the right career path. The Edukasyon.ph website helps one find courses, college scholarships based on their career preferences. Moreover, the site can help guidance counsellors give students a diverse set of career options and courses offered nationwide. We encourage everyone's participation in usage of the site.

To better explain these career clinics, we would be happy to meet you at a date convenient for you. You may contact our High School Engagement Manager, Nathaniel G. Divinagracia at (+632) 823 2701 / +63917 721 4362 or through email at ndivinagracia@edukasyon.ph.

Thank you very much and we look forward to working with you in this initiative.

Very truly yours,

The career clinics are computer-based sessions on college search that provide incoming college students an opportunity to search for higher education institutions and scholarships that correspond to their interests. These sessions empower students with information online on the different careers they can choose from.

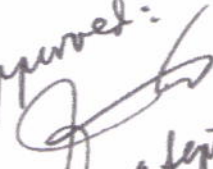

In connection to this, we would like to request permission to conduct these career clinics at high schools in CALABARZON. During the career clinics students will be taught on how to navigate the Edukasyon.ph website to find courses, college scholarships based on their career preferences. These clinics can help guidance counselors give students a diverse set of career options and courses offered nationwide.

To better explain these career clinics, we would be happy to meet you at a date convenient for you. You may contact Ms. Riza Mae Solis at (+632) 823 2701 / +63935 212 2791 or through email at rmsolis@edukasyon.ph.

Thank you very much and we look forward to working with you in this initiative.

Very truly yours,
